The Dallas & Northwestern Citizens of Decatur, sent by the people of that city on here to confer with the directory of the Dallas & Northwestern Rellroad, have arrived in the city. It is to be hoped those having the matter in hand will give the gentlemen audiance to-day. These gen-tlemen represent one of the most pop-ulous and prosperous counties in North Texas, the trade of which legitimately belongs to Dallas. At present this trade is in a measure directed into other channels because of the absence of transportation facilities to Dallas. Wise County is known to posses the richest of coal deposits, which, if chear transportation can be had, will place it within the power of Dallas to become at an early day the principal manufacturing city of the Southwest. The gentlemen who are here from Decatur mean tusiness and we hope something tangible may result from the conference which will take place to-day.

the conference which will take place to-day.

They bring the gratifying news that the crops in Wise County are the finest ever known. The corn crop is simply immense; more than sufficient to supply the Panhandle. The wheat and oats crops were not damaged to any perceivable extent by the rains, and the worms have not hert the cotton. They report the county of Wise and the city of Decatur on a boom, and ready to welcome connection with Dalles by rail.
